

Who We Are

North Coast Gas Transmission (NCGT) is headquartered in Columbus, OH and operates a 280-mile natural gas transmission pipeline system spanning thirteen counties throughout the state. NCGT provides natural gas supply diversification to Northern Ohio and develops projects to help better serve market demands. Our commercial focus is to deliver continued reliability through safety and performance while helping meet the pipeline development needs of our customers. NCGT is regulated under the authority of the Public Utility Commission of Ohio (PUCO).

Our Philosophy

Our aim is to continue to invest in and develop pipeline assets that will provide reliable and cost-effective natural gas transportation for our customers. North Coast is committed to the safe operation of its pipelines and the protection of the environment. We have a strong track record of environmental safety and responsiveness and take pride in our strong customer reliability. Using a safety-focused approach, we take the community and its safety very seriously when it comes to daily operations and developing new projects.
